

FIRST ARGENTINE CORN HERE

Peck is Brought from New Orleans by Earl Beardsley.

INFERIOR TO THE HOME GROWN

Grain Men Not Much Exercised Over the Importation of the Cereal from the South American Country.

The first Argentine corn ever seen on the Omaha grain market was brought in by Earl Beardsley of the Merriam-Millard company, and when it was placed on one of the tables in the trading room of the exchange attracted more attention than the regular price quotations of the day.

The Argentine corn that Mr. Beardsley brought in was not for sale, but instead was a sample of about one peck that he brought up from New Orleans with him. By all of the grain men the corn was pronounced much inferior to the Nebraska cereal, although it is almost free of moisture.

Mr. Beardsley was in New Orleans last week, and while he was there a vessel came in from Argentina, bringing a cargo of corn, it having been the first to have ever arrived on that market. It was sent in by some of the Argentine dealers simply for the purpose of testing the market of the United States. And while sold, it was not sought after to any degree, going at 2 to 3 cents below United States corn of a similar grade. The Argentine corn sample that Mr. Beardsley brought was taken from the cargo just as it ran. In appearance it represents a cross between the yellow dent and the old-fashioned eight-row Yankee corn, the kernels being rather small and irregular in size and very hard. The husk of the kernel is said to be thin and brittle.

Stables Corn Situation. While in New Orleans Mr. Beardsley made something of a study of the Argentine corn situation, gathering information from dealers and from some of the people who accompanied the shipment. He found that the freight rate was very low, as the corn was used for ballast, but the sum charged he did not ascertain.

Mr. Beardsley learned that heretofore about all of the corn that Argentina has exported has gone to England, with Germany taking a small quantity. Last year the crop of the country, which was considered normal, aggregated 300,000,000 bushels and the most ever exported in any one year has been 240,000,000 bushels, a quantity just equal to the yield of one of the states of the United States.

While the receipt of the cargo sold the New Orleans market off a bit Mr. Beardsley sees no reason why, if all the Argentine corn should come to the United States, it could hold the market down to any extent, as the entire crop would not be sufficient to supply the consuming demand here more than a week at the longest.

Little Lad Bitten in November Dies of Hydrophobia

Bitten nearly two months ago by a dog belonging to their neighbors, little Hugo Chaloupka, Jr., aged 7 years, died at the home of his parents, 136 North Twenty-sixth street, Sunday night of hydrophobia. Little Hugo was playing with some other children in November, when he was bitten by the dog. For several days he was troubled with a slight wound, which apparently healed, and he seemed as well as usual. Last week he was in school when he began to feel badly. Thursday night he was sick, and his father, Mike Chaloupka, who is an employee of the First Trust company, thought it a minor illness. Saturday night the little fellow became violently ill and died Sunday night at 3 o'clock. Dr. Edward Chaloupka and Dr. Hugo Chaloupka, both of South Omaha, are uncles of the boy.

Ice Cream Men to See Tornado Films

How Omaha's tornado-swept district was rebuilt in ninety days will be graphically told with motion pictures Monday evening by E. V. Farvish of the publicity bureau at an opening session of the state ice cream men's convention. A big reel of the film pictures will be used to show the tornado district the day after the cyclone, ten days later and then how it looked after three months of industrious restoration.

The famous films showing Omaha's wholesale, retail, commercial and manufacturing districts, its schools, parks, boulevards and other points of attraction also will be shown before the ice cream men. These latter films have already been exhibited to over 2,000,000 people during the last two years.

BIG FIRMS ARE LOOKING UP THE SUBCONTRACTORS

Two Chicago contracting firms which are preparing bids for the erection of the new Fontainebleau hotel at Eighteenth and Douglas streets have asked members of the Omaha Builders' exchange to get in touch with them for subcontractors. They are the George A. Fuller company and the Thompson-Starratt company. The bids on the whole job are to be in the hands of Architect Kimball by Thursday noon.

Passenger Clerks Will Discuss Rates at Chicago Meeting

A passenger rate meeting has been called at Chicago Wednesday and rate clerks from all over the country are gathering there. It is said that it will be one of the largest attended meetings held in the last ten years, as the lining up of all rates to and from Minnesota points will come up for adjustment.

The Chicago meeting at this time will deal almost entirely with the Minnesota rate question. The supreme court recently held that 3 cents per mile within Minnesota should be the legal passenger rate to be charged by the railroads. Prior to the decision the rate had been 3 cents per mile. The change makes it necessary to line up the rate to and from practically every railroad station in the United States.

The new Minnesota rate becomes operative May 1, and it is thought that it will consume all the time between now and then to line up the rates and get them before the public.

CHARGES SILVERS WITH BEATING HIS MOTHER

Raymond Walker of Lawrence, Kan. journeyed to Omaha Monday for the express purpose of filing a complaint against Joseph Silvers, 221 Douglas street, charging him with assault and battery on Mrs. Edna Walker, his mother.

Mrs. Walker, who lives at the same number as does Silvers, is confined to her bed with paralysis, said to be caused by reason of Silvers' attacks. Raymond learned of the affair Sunday, when he received a letter from the bedridden woman. He filed a complaint Tuesday morning against Silvers, who will be given a hearing Wednesday in police court.

Northwestern main line wires have connected the High School of Commerce telegraphy department with their lines and from now on regular messages will be constantly passing through the room, thus giving students actual practice. Many have already signed for telegraphy for the coming term.

WOULD LEASE COUNTY LAND

R. B. Howell Wants Part of Field Club Tract for Reservoir.

BRINGS PICTURE WITH HIM

But in Spite of the Pretty Trees the Commissioners Ask Time to Take the Matter Under Adjudication.

R. B. Howell, chief of the Water board, at a conference with the Board of County Commissioners, declared that he would like to lease twenty-seven lots near Thirty-sixth and Pacific streets, owned by the county, for a reservoir site, but that he did not desire to buy them unless he had no alternative.

"So far as I am concerned," he said, "I would consider it would be more advisable to lease the lots, but I would desire an arrangement by which I might buy them in the event the county should sell the remainder of the tract. I am anxious to lease them now because I think I should start work on the reservoir next spring."

Mr. Howell said his intention was to build a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir to be supplied from the Poppleton avenue pumping station. Although he brought with him a pretty picture of the proposed reservoir, showing it surrounded by trees and grass, some of the commissioners expressed fear that it might injure the value of adjoining property. Mr. Howell said the walls of the reservoir would be twenty feet above the surface of the ground.

The commissioners gave Mr. Howell no definite answer, but indicated that they would make an investigation and consult with the county attorney. They were inclined to think they would prefer to sell the lots desired by Mr. Howell, which are at the northeast end of that portion of the poor farm grounds leased by the Field club.

Wool Growers Have Many Dates Ahead

General Freight Agent Lane of the Union Pacific has gone to Cheyenne to be present at the Wyoming Wool Growers' association that convenes there Wednesday. The Cheyenne meeting is expected to bring in a large number of the flock masters of Wyoming, Colorado and western Nebraska, probably at least 300. Following the Cheyenne meeting the National Wool Growers' association will convene at Salt Lake Friday, continuing over until Saturday and it is expected that a large number of the delegates to the Wyoming convention will attend. It is supposed that from Salt Lake a number of the delegates will go to Denver, where they will attend the National Western Livestock show to be held there January 19-24.

Congressman Does Not Understand Income Tax Law

Some idea of the complexity and technicality of the income tax law may be gained from the fact that Dan Stephens, member of congress, has written Ross L. Hammond, collector of internal revenue for the district of Nebraska, asking that Mr. Hammond send him income tax blanks and the instructions for properly filling out the blank.

"The next time a bill passes congress I'll try to see that it is so worded that an ordinary congressman can comply with the law without resorting to his friends for an interpretation of the law," declared Mr. Stephens in closing.

Henrietta Owens was awarded a verdict of $7,000 against the street railway company by a jury in Judge Day's court for the death of her husband, John S. Owens, who was killed at Fortieth and Hamilton streets. The jury was out from 9:30 o'clock Monday night until 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, and the plaintiff asked for $2,000 damages.

Owens was killed as he walked around the back of the car from which he had alighted as it was turning around at the terminal on a "Y." The accident occurred on October 24, 1912.
